Chartered Banks in 14 Countries Use the Alkaimi Ecosystem for Wholesale Settlement

30 September 2026 (New York, NY) — Pegisai Global Holdings, Inc. announced that on 1 September 2026, chartered banks began wholesale settlement operations without claims or currency on the Alkaimi Ecosystem, using licensed Pegisai technology.

Pegisai's technology enables Alkaimi Ecosystem members in 14 countries to conduct traditional wholesale settlement operations, using a 100% whole-value model while complying with existing regulation, procedures and law.

"The ecosystem's regionally chartered bank members, using Pegisai-licensed technologies, recognize value from 17 asset classes, with further classes to follow," said Mike Rogers, spokesman for Pegisai Global Holdings.

Members of the currency-neutral Alkaimi Ecosystem adopted and licensed technologies developed by Pegisai Global Holdings, including the 100% Whole Reserve™ model. The model lets member institutions reduce operating risk and recognize value in assets that previously sat outside ordinary settlement.

Value held on the ecosystem's ledger is held under a custodial agreement. Held value is not a currency deposit and is not insured by deposit insurance or by a government agency such as the FDIC. The settlement mechanisms used in the licensed model are themselves individually insured.

This notice is issued by Pegisai Global Holdings. Supervisory classification of member operations rests with each member's own regulator. The platform has not been designated a systemically important financial market utility. This notice is not an offer of currency deposits, securities or banking services.
